

Jim Glenn is the Director of the Utah Division of Arts & Museums' Visual Arts Program with focus on Acquisitions for the State of Utah Alice Merrill Horne Collection, the Design Arts and Utah's Public Art Program. Jim has been with the Division since 1997.

Prior to his position with the State of Utah Jim was Senior Associate with Viart Corporation based in New York acquiring, commissioning and managing the art collections of several Fortune 500 companies' world headquarters and regional offices.

Jim has recently served on the Americans for the Arts Public Art Network Council and in 2002 was the Exhibitions Coordinator for the Olympic Winter Games Cultural Olympiad. He currently is on the Board of Artspace in Salt Lake City and previously served as Chair of the University of Utah Fine Arts Alumni Council, Westminster College Art Advisory Board, and the Board of the University of Utah Center for Interdisciplinary Arts and Technology. Jim has served on numerous community based public art committees, panelist member, presenter, speaking engagements, workshops, curatorial projects, and grant review panels.